Two Pairs of Young People Are Refused Licenses, While Marrying Justice Grieves.

The marital aspirations of two pairs of Illinois young people, who appeared at the Belleville courthouse in quick succession Wednesday morning, were jarred by the refusal of Marriage License Clerk Winkler to issue licenses. The ambition of Justice William E. Ward of the justice trio that controls Cupid's market in Belleville, to marry them, was also thwarted, and he returned to his whitening to await the coming of the next pair.

The two pairs were John Wailheimer of Trenton and Barbara Kunkel of Caseyville, who gave their ages as 21 and 18, respectively, and Oscar Sappington and Daisy Robinson, also of Trenton, who told the clerk they were aged 22 and 20, respectively.

The vexation of Miss Kunkel was so great when objection was made because of the youthful appearance of her prospective husband that she exclaimed: "Well, if the old goose had had sense enough to come with us we wouldn't have had this trouble."

When Oscar Sappington and Daisy Robinson were refused license on account of the youthful appearance of both, they started out in Belleville to look for friends. They had not returned at 1 o'clock Wednesday afternoon.

Sappington and his bride-elect alighted from the suburban car at 9 o'clock Wednesday morning. They were met by Justice Ward, who just happened to be about half an hour later came Wailheimer and his intended.

Ward also met them. When informed that the other pair had applied and been refused their hearts drooped, and they were prepared for the refusal.

AGED WOMAN AND GRANDCHILD MOURN FOR MISSING GIRL

CLARA CONRAD, Missing.

Marie Large, Missing.

Grandmother and Sister of Marie Large Inconsolable and III With Grief Because of Her Continued Absence— Efforts to Find Her Futile.

Behind the closed doors of a humble home at 2618 Evans avenue, away from the inquisitive world, may be found an aged grandmother and little granddaughter, inconsolable, both weeping continually and upon the verge of nervous collapse, because of the unexplained absence of the little girl's sister from home since Wednesday of last week.

The grandmother is Mrs. Catherine Johnson and the little girl is Henrietta Large. The missing girl is Marie Large.

The thought that the girl, who is only 15 years old, is out in a strange world and among strangers has been too much for the aged woman, who has been ill from grief a part of the time since her granddaughter's disappearance.

The girl's sister is in little better health. Though several years younger than the girl who is missing, they have been the closest companions for years. When the elder girl failed to come home one night a week ago, the little girl began to worry. She has not been in good health since, and her mother fears that she will become seriously ill if the sister does not return home. Fears are also entertained by the mother that if no trace is found of the girl the grandmother will not survive the shock.

It was last Wednesday when 15-year-old Marie Large left home to go to school. She stopped at a grocery store at School street and Channing avenue and purchased some bananas. She was then in company with 16-year-old Clara Conrad of 3429 Thomas street, who is also missing from home. No trace has been found of the girls since they were at the grocery.

Mrs. Gertrude Large, mother of one of the girls, reported their disappearance to the police immediately, and Tuesday afternoon she received a report that the girls were staying at 816 South Fourteenth street. When that address was visited the girls were not there and it was stated they had not been there.

The mother believes the child wishes to return home, but is afraid that she will be punished. While Mrs. Large is not pleased with her daughter's disappearance, she is willing to forget all if the child will only return home.

Mrs. Large suspects that two young men of the neighborhood, who have been childhood sweethearts of the two girls, know where they may be found, but this is strenuously denied by both, who profess a willingness to assist in the search and do all in their power to find the girls.

Little Henrietta Large has asked the Post-Dispatch to assist her in finding her sister. She said:

"If Marie only knew how bad grandma and mamma and I want to see her she would not stay away. I'm sure she would come right home."

"She don't know how much we all want her to come back. If you can do anything to find her, please do. I know the Post-Dispatch has found other girls who have gone away from home, and I'm sure you'll find Marie and bring her back to us."

Marie Large is described as being 5 feet 3 inches tall. She weighs 103 pounds, and has black hair and dark blue eyes. She was dressed in a white shirt waist, brown skirt with white dots, yellow straw hat, trimmed with black ribbon, and she wore black ribbon bows in her hair.

Clara Conrad is slightly larger and is a blond.

COUNCIL CHAMBER SCENE OF WEDDING

City Hall Traditions Shattered by Wedding of Youthful Pair From Hallsville, Ill.

BRIDE 16. HUSBAND SAME AGE

Secure Clergyman From Christian Convention and Are Made One at President's Desk.

Dudley Downs and Miss Irene Bartley had the double distinction Wednesday of being the youngest couple to whom a marriage license was ever issued at the City Hall and of being the first couple married in the ornate city council chamber.

The ceremony made Dudley Downs a benedict at the age of 16, and his bride at the same age.

Both are from Hallsville, Ill. When they decided that they were old enough to get married, they at the same time decided that a wedding in prospect in Hallsville would not do for them. They planned to get married in St. Louis and brought their wedding party along to attend the wedding and visit the World's Fair.

They wanted to be married by Rev. G. T. Holton of Lincoln, Ill., and as he is attending the Christian Missionary Convention in St. Louis, there was no difficulty about that.

So they came to St. Louis Wednesday morning, the youthful bride and bridegroom, David Bartley, the father of the girl, Arthur Bell, the guardian of Downs, and several friends. After finding Mr. Holton they went to the City Hall and a license was issued.

They intended to go to a hotel and have the ceremony performed, but they were in no great hurry about it and decided to see the sights of the City Hall first.

In their rounds they came to the city council chamber and when they saw it they agreed that it was one of the most gorgeous apartments they had ever seen.

The bride timidly suggested that she would like to be married there. The other members of the party thought it was a good idea, but had doubts whether they would be permitted to have a wedding there.

George Mockler, clerk of the council, was in his office, and they asked him about it. He knew there was no precedent for such a proceeding, but he could not see that there could be any objection to it, so he told them to go ahead.

The bride wanted to fix her hair and Mr. Mockler loaned her a comb and brush and placed a committee room at her disposal for a dressing room. When she had finished and the bridegroom had also completed his toilet, they stood in front of the president's desk and the clergyman made them one.

Before that word had spread through the offices and there was a considerable crowd of clerks and stenographers on hand to witness the ceremony.

After the ceremony, to which Mr. Mockler and Assistant Secretary Kitchen were the official witnesses, the spectators gathered around and congratulated the youthful pair.

The party then went out to the World's Fair.

the proper thing. If it is considered necessary to have a railway, to reach the Fine Arts building, I say rather than have a railway in the park, let us tear down the Fine Arts building."

Ben C. Adkins, Water Commissioner: "I do not think the scheme is a practicable one. It might be desirable to use some of the landscape features, such as the cascades, the fountains and the sunken gardens, but the general proposition of maintaining a permanent exposition with large buildings is not a good one for the city. Concerning the Intramural road, it has been decided that the city cannot operate a railway and charge for fares, and if it runs the lines free it will be a source of very large expense, which the city is not in shape to assume. The road in my department running to the Chain of Rocks might be a source of revenue, but it has been shown that the city cannot constitutionally charge fares. If it should turn out that the cascades and the Terrace of States and the pavilions attached could be made permanent, it might be well to keep that part, as these are impressive features and would be very attractive in a park."

Joseph P. Whyte, Harbor Commissioner: "Absolutely absurd. Any bill that calls for making a permanent affair out of the present World's Fair is not worthy of consideration by any sensible person. The buildings were never erected with any idea of permanency, and it would be foolish to consider any suggestion of that nature. The Intramural road is an eye-sore as it is, and I cannot see any sensible reason for its perpetuation in a park. As to the plan of the board for the restoration of the park, that is a matter which must be considered by the board if the park is to be restored under the present ordinances. I repeat that the Kinney bill is absurd."

Charles Varrelman, Street Commissioner: "Make a permanent exposition of the World's Fair? Preposterous. Those buildings are not fitted for permanency, and would be a constant source of expense to the city. Make Forest Park a park and nothing else. As to the Intramural road, it is only constructed for the purpose of reaching the different World's Fair buildings and would not be found adapted to permanent use. The roads and trails are had enough for an exposition without making them part of a park system."

SPLIT, BRITTLE, DULL HAIR.

All Come From Dandruff, Which Is Caused by a Germ.

Split hair, hard hair, lusterless hair, brittle hair, falling hair, all owe their origin to dandruff, which is caused by a nearly little microbe that burrows into the scalp, throwing up the outside into dandruff scales and sapping the vitality of the hair at the root, causing the several diseased conditions of the hair till it finally falls out. ## WM. ZACHRITZ, AS PROSECUTOR, "GANG'S" ALLY

Man Nominated by Republicans for Circuit Judge, When Circuit Attorney, Used Official Power to Free Indicted Officeholders.

LET FOERSTEL CASE RUN
PAST THE LIMITATION PERIOD

"Missing $4102" Case, in Which Ziegenhein Was Indicted, Came to Nothing Through His Methods—Grandjuries Denounced Him.

The Post-Dispatch recently directed attention to the remarkable charge delivered by Judge William Zachritz, now a candidate for reelection as circuit judge on the Republican ticket, relative to the celebrated $200,000 Central Traction deal, passed by bribery through the Municipal Assembly in the spring of 1898.

After the Post-Dispatch had fully exposed the details of this gigantic steal, Judge Zachritz called upon the grandjury to institute an inquiry, but nullified his instruction by directing that if the bootleggers were not indicted, the editors of the Post-Dispatch should be indicted.

Theodore C. Eggers was circuit attorney of St. Louis at that time. No result came from the investigation of the case, which Circuit Attorney Folk has since declared to be a better case than those on which he convicted bootleggers now in the penitentiary. The effect of Judge Zachritz's charge was to cast a damper on the investigation and prevent the returning of indictments against the guilty parties.

But while Judge Zachritz has shown favoritism to friends of the "gang" while on the bench, his most conspicuous service was rendered when he held the important offices of circuit attorney and assistant circuit attorney of St. Louis.

Judge Zachritz was admitted to the bar in 1884, and a year later was appointed assistant city attorney. In 1888 he was elected assistant circuit attorney on the Republican ticket, and in 1892 was elected circuit attorney.

Ran Behind Ticket
at Each Election.

Judge Zachritz's record as assistant circuit attorney was such that he ran 600 votes behind his ticket in the succeeding election, when he made the race for circuit attorney.

In 1896 he was nominated for circuit judge. There were five Republican candidates that year for circuit judge, and Zachritz received the lowest vote with one exception.

Judge Zachritz's total vote was 5,123. Judge Fisher received 6,453. Judge Wood 6,306 and Judge Spencer 5,541. Zachritz was 324 behind Fisher and 615 behind Wood.

At the Republican convention last Monday Judge Zachritz was selected as one of the five Republican judicial nominees over Gen. George H. Shields and Judge Horatio D. Wood—the latter of whom ran over 600 votes ahead of Zachritz in the 1896 election.

During his term as circuit attorney, William Zachritz showed a distinct partiality to wrongdoers with political influence.

The most notable instance was that of City Treasurer Michael Foerstel, who was found short in his accounts $144,150.

Although the grandjury returned seven indictments against Foerstel, Zachritz hesitated to prosecute. After three years had expired, making the statute of limitations operative, the indictments were found to be faulty and Zachritz dismissed the case. The grandjury answered with new indictments and again the circuit attorney used the power of his office to free his political associate.

The henchmen of former Mayor Henry Ziegenhein brought about Zachritz's nomination in the late Republican convention, as in former conventions. As circuit attorney William Zachritz was "good" to Uncle Henry. Not only did he defend the members of the Ziegenhein gang when they got into serious trouble, but he dismissed an indictment which charged Ziegenhein, as collector, with misappropriation of public funds.

Besides the facts presented by the Post-Dispatch today, there are other cases showing how Zachritz helped his friends when he had the power to do it, and indicating why they are now so earnest and so active in his support. The following cases, however, may be cited as typical:

His Inaction Freed
Treasurer Foerstel

"I will see that my friend Foerstel gets justice."

The case of former City Treasurer Michael Foerstel, apropos of which William Zachritz, then circuit attorney of St. Louis, made the foregoing remark when asked if he intended to institute a vigorous prosecution, constitutes one of the darkest chapters in the municipal history of St. Louis.

On the morning of Dec. 19, 1894, Eddie Foerstel, son of City Treasurer Michael Foerstel, was found dead in his room at the Sixteenth and Pine streets. He had fired a bullet through his brain and the weapon was lying near his side when the body was found.

Some time before this discovery was made an alarm of fire sounded from the City Hall, Eleventh and Chestnut streets. About an hour before young Foerstel had been seen to leave the building.

When the firemen arrived smoke and flame led them to the city treasurer's office. There several packages consisting of books, papers, check receipts and countless memoranda were found heaped in a pile, with a great sheet of flame rapidly threatening destruction.

The vault in the office was open and indications pointed to an incendiary. The fire was promptly extinguished and an immediate inquiry was begun.

Prosecution Let Cases Drag On.

Within a few days expert accountants put to work on the city treasurer's

ZACHRITZ TO THE RESCUE!

Under the instructions given by Judge Zachritz for the grandjury investigation of the Central Traction boodle deal, it was much more dangerous for a newspaper to expose corruption in the public service than for official bootleggers to engage in it. Judge Zachritz devoted most of his instructions to denunciation of what he was pleased to call the "licentious press," and to cautioning the grandjury against finding indictments. He even went so far as to tell the grandjury that it must demand convincing evidence of the guilt of the accused men of the newspaper making the charges, and if it were not forthcoming, they must indict the editor of the newspaper for libel. That charge to the grandjury is a monument of judicial incompetence and pliant subservience to corrupt forces. It was the climax of a long term of service to politicians with a pull on the part of Zachritz.—From the Post-Dispatch of Oct. 12, 1904.

books computed a total shortage of $144,150, as follows:

April 20, 1891.....	$ 24,000
May 15, 1891.....	20,000
Aug. 6, 1891.....	26,000
Sept. 23, 1891.....	18,000
June 21, 1892.....	24,000
Sept. 1, 1892.....	22,000
Total .....	$144,150

Foerstel was at once deposed as treasurer and debarred from taking charge of the office again.

In January, 1893, the grandjury took up the case and returned seven indictments, charging embezzlement against the ex-treasurer.

When the cases came to trial, Foerstel applied for and was granted a change of venue. His attorneys alleged prejudice on the part of the people of St. Louis.

Three of the cases were sent to Montgomery County and the other four to Jefferson County.

Circuit Attorney Zachritz and "Mike" Foerstel were closely affiliated in politics, and when the startling discoveries were made in the treasurer's office the prosecutor proved the defendant's best friend.

Given Benefit of Limitations.

The indictments hung fire for three years. The defense resisted every effort made to bring the cases to trial, resorting to every subterfuge of the law and receiving, if anything, encouragement from the St. Louis prosecutor.

Meantime the passage of a new change of venue law brought about a return of the cases taken away by change of venue. New indictments were necessary. They should have been drawn up long before, but Zachritz waited until the statute of limitations was operative in Foerstel's behalf.

Then he went into the criminal court and caused the cases against Michael Foerstel to be dismissed, marking the words "nolle prosequit" across his docket.

Zachritz felt that Foerstel could not be indicted; Foerstel felt safe, and the City Hall gangsters held a feast of rejoicing.

But the people were aroused. From every section of St. Louis went a protest against the prosecutor who had dared to laugh at the law and free his political friend.

In February, 1896, the grandjury reopened the inquiry into the Foerstel case. The members of the grandjury refused to treat with the circuit attorney. They declared the conduct of Zachritz had been such that they were unwilling to further trust him with so important an investigation.

Feb. 26, 1896, the grandjury made its report—a report which was the severest rebuke ever administered to the "gang's" sponsor, Circuit Attorney William Zachritz.

Pardoning Power
Usurped, They Said.

In reporting on the Foerstel case to Judge Edmunds, the grandjury submitted this remarkable statement:

"During the sitting of this grandjury the indictments pending in Division No. 2 of the Criminal Court against Michael Foerstel were nolle prosequit by the clerk of the circuit attorney by consent of and after consultation, as stated, with the circuit attorney himself. Deeming that the apparent persistent refusal of the state's attorneys to bring these cases to trial merited an investigation, we beg leave to present to the honorable court our conclusions, after careful and painstaking inquiry."

Then follows a statement concerning the fire at the City Hall, the subsequent indictment of Foerstel and the diatribe tactics employed by Zachritz.

"The fire which practically ended Mr. Foerstel's administration," said the grandjury, "occurred Dec. 19, 1892. The term of prosecution is barred by statute ended Dec. 19, 1895. It will thus be seen that on the very first date after the end of three years from the latest date on which an embezzlement could have occurred these cases were called in court and they were nolle prosequit."

"We have been advised in writing by the circuit attorney (William Zachritz) that a further prosecution of these cases will not lie. Notwithstanding this advice, we have indicted several defendants, charging exactly the same offenses. We have taken this course because we believe that these indictments will have the effect of suspending the statute of limitations during the time that previous indictments were pending. They should be brought to trial before a jury."

"And in view of the facts an above recited, which seem to indicate a disposition on the part of the circuit attorney to deny a trial, we request the governor of Missouri to instruct the attorney-general to take charge of the prosecution of these cases, feeling that the circuit attorney, by allowing these cases to be continued from time to time, and finally causing nolle prosequit to be entered after a term of three years had elapsed, has practically usurped the pardoning power, which is vested by law in the executive alone, and that there would be no disposition on his part to prosecute the indictments which we have returned."

Nothing came of the grandjury's report. The work of Zachritz received further commendation from the "gang."

Zachritz and Missing $4102.

But it was not uncommon for Zachritz to protect officeholders of his party.

No municipal scandal received wider publicity than that which came to be known as the "missing $4102." In April, 1894, the Anheuser-Busch Brewing Co. made the charge that it had paid into the office of Collector Henry Ziegenhein as a part of its taxes the sum of $4102; that a few months later the association was notified that its special license tax was due.

The brewery people claimed that the check for the sum was paid to Carl Ungar, who was Ziegenhein's chief deputy at the time. The check passed through the bank and was paid, but the collector's books showed no record of it. As a result the matter was submitted to the grandjury.

It was then discovered that a number of the books of the collector's office were missing and a large force of men was put to work in the cellar of the old City Hall to find them—a task which was never accomplished.

Indictments charging misappropriation of funds were returned against Carl Ungar and Henry Ziegenhein.

Municipal Assembly made a half-hearted attempt to unravel the mystery of the check for $4102, and then Mayor Walbridge appointed a committee to investigate the affairs of the collector's office.

Eighteen months passed before the "white-washers" submitted their report, which reported nothing and made no reference to the missing Anheuser-Busch check.

Ungar, prosecuted by his friend, Zachritz, who had a child troubled same way what the wine did for our children. They got a bottle of Drake's Pain-Expeller Wine and in one week their child had no more trouble with bed wetting.

The Drake Formula Company, Drake Building, Chicago, Ill., will send a bottle of Drake's Pain-Expeller Wine free and prepaid to any reader of this paper who wishes to test Drake's Pain-Expeller Wine and in one week their child has no more trouble with bed wetting.

Among a score of notorious cases which Zachritz, as circuit attorney, dismissed were those of Bell Coplan, alias Kessler, charged with burglary in the second degree and with being an habitual criminal;

James Smith, receiving stolen property, and Martin Pollock, burglary in the second degree and larceny.

These offenders were indicted by the grandjury in January, 1894, but when they were called for trial the circuit attorney notified the court that they had been "nolle prosequit" and that there would be no prosecution.

The evidence in each case was so conclusive that the members of the grandjury, which returned the indictments were so confident of their own judgment, that they returned the indictments without a jury.

Assistant Circuit Attorney Jesse A. McDonald investigated the cases and called the attention of the May grandjury to them.

The grandjury, after an exhaustive inquiry, reindicted each of the three men named.

When the cases were called for trial January 22, 1893, Circuit Attorney Zachritz ordered a scene in Judge Edmunds' court by denouncing his assistant, Mr. McDonald, as a "coward" and threatening various retaliations with the work of his official superior if he did not drop the cases.

Drumming to let either the grandjury or Jesse McDonald run my affairs. These going to do the same thing, with them again at the first opportunity."

Again Condemned
by Grandjurers.

James Bannerman, foreman of the July grandjury, which also made an investigation of the cases, made this statement:

"In the judgment of the jurors there was ample evidence upon which to secure conviction. We cannot understand why men were not prosecuted, and under the circumstances it would be useless for us to return a third indictment."

The grandjury was then called upon to return a third indictment.

FRENCH OFFICIAL PRAISES ST. LOUIS

Commissioner-General to the World's Fair Speaks Flattering Words for the Exposition.

ADDRESSES JURY OF AWARDS

Friendship of France for America and St. Louis Is Pledged by France's Representative.

In addressing the World's Fair grandjury of awards, Commissioner-General Gerard of France, third vice-president of the jury, delivered the following excellent address:

"Twice already the United States of North America have celebrated by international exhibitions the great dates of their history. In 1876, at Philadelphia, you celebrated the centennial of the Declaration of Independence, as we did a few years later, in 1887, when we commemorated the glorious anniversary of our political enfranchisement. In 1893 it was at Chicago that the fourth centennial of the discovery of the New World by Christopher Columbus was observed.

"Today, at St. Louis, you celebrate the aggrandizement, the extension of the authority, and the influence of America over the immense French territory, voluntarily ceded. You do so today by the most glorious demonstration of fruitful activity and the productive power of American industry and agriculture, showing thereby once more to the old nations of Europe that the civilized world is no longer limited by the columns of Hercules.

"Gentlemen, France could not fail to be present on such an occasion. The government of the French Republic, true to our historic friendship, cemented by French blood, which was shed over a hundred years ago for American independence, and by the ties which bind the people of Louisiana to the history, and only to show to our artists and manufacturers and agriculturists, as well as to our scientists, the road which the elite have taken, which you have admired and still admire.

"Your efforts have been greatly rewarded by the sympathetic welcome you have extended to them by your flattering remarks, of which they have taken away with them the most grateful and touching remembrance.

"Chief among them let me name President Picard, who will certainly not forget the homage paid his admirable intelligence, his talent, his experience and his leadership in exposition matters, just to show by these manifestations the happy road made by France in selecting him to officially represent her at this great international gathering of intelligence, of progress and of peace.

"The St. Louis Exposition, more than any other, is universal and international. The entire universe has gathered here, and more than one country, vaguely known to geographers, shows here its industrial value, its development and its progress, by the large number of acres it covers, by the millions spent on it, by the vaunts of its buildings, by the magnificent effort from which it came forth, the St. Louis Exposition conveys the feeling of colossal power, but adorned with grace and nobility.

"The preparation of a work so full of difficulties, for whoever knew this place, it today occupies the organization, the results obtained by this solemn manifestation, do the greatest honor to the workers of the first hour. To admit it is to render a legitimate homage to the worth and talent of the men whose names will be forever connected with the admirable enterprise.

"Chief among these I am happy to quote President Picard, Mr. Schiff, and their sympathetic collaborators and assistants, chiefs of departments, to whom I express, as well as the members of the jury, without distinction of nationality, my thanks and my personal gratitude.

"In making this statement at this last official manifestation, the French Commissioner-General, who remembers to have been your guest and who hopes, gentlemen, allow me to say, to remain your friend, fulfills thereby an especially agreeable duty. This duty is all the more enjoyable, especially when to the sunshine, which enlightens everything (as today and since my arrival here we have been favored in this regard, as in every other), you add the affability and cordiality of relationship, as well as good humor, which call forth and enter into mutual sympathy.

"The true sun resides in our hearts, because nothing is beautiful, sweet and brilliant like the smile and like faces covered with smiles, and outstretched hands. We have before us the example thereof, and we can only thank those who bring us together and who help us to realize the union of minds and of heart for the good of the universe and of the immense task of civilization.

"I will subscribe on our annals the name of St. Louis in 1904, and we will call her the city of hospitality; we will bestow upon that will be responded to by Mrs. Nellie G. Burger of Clark.

"I can give no better expression to the sentiments which animate me and which you share, than by drinking to the prosperity of the United States, to St. Louis, to our common hospitality, and to our encouraging example of union and concord of all peoples for the good of humanity."

NAVAL SHOW—2, 6, 8, 9:30 p. m. daily. Don't fail to see it; on The Pike.

Unidentified Man Kills Himself.

An unidentified man, 30 years old, took his life in a rooming house at St. Market street, where he was known by the name of "Tuesday" night, by shooting himself through the head. No cause is known for the act. He was apparently a laboring man, and when his clothing was searched 15 cents and a gold ring were all that was found. The body was taken to the morgue.

Aim! Fire! Bang! Bang! Victory at Santiago actually repeated before your eyes. Real steel boats; real water; real shells! The Spanish fleet actually destroyed. Naval Show, west end of Pike.

WOMEN'S WOES

Many of the daily woes of womanhood are due to sick kidneys; but too many women fail to recognize kidney trouble when they have it, and kidney diseases are fatal if neglected too long.

When a woman's back aches from morning to night—

When she feels worn out after every bit of work she has to do—

When she cannot bend or stoop without suffering twinges of pain—

When she has constant headaches, dizzy spells, bearing-down pains and urinary troubles—

When she has any or all of these ailments it is a sure sign that the kidneys are not doing their duty. Uric acid and other poisons that the kidneys should filter out of the blood are carrying disease into every part of the system.

Recognize this as a danger signal. Recognize the kidneys as the cause of your many aches and pains, and to cure the kidneys use a kidney medicine.

Doan's Kidney Pills cure sick kidneys and cure them permanently. The kidneys begin to do their work properly, and pure blood, the greatest system regulator, restores the whole body to health and strength.

Don't Neglect the Kidneys. At the First Indication of Kidney Trouble Begin Using Doan's Kidney Pills, a Modern Kidney Specific, which has cured Thousands of People Right Here at Home.

ST. LOUIS TESTIMONY.

Mrs. John Hladon of 1517 Clark avenue says: "My back ached at night so that I could scarcely turn in bed. Sometimes the twinges were so severe that I could only describe the suffering as excruciating. I could not do any housework when the attacks were at their height, and although I consulted physicians and took medicine, I could not check the trouble, let alone cure it. Just before I went to 'Wolfe-Wilson's' corner Sixth and Washington avenue, for Doan's Kidney Pills, I was unable to stay in bed on account of pain in the back. You can readily understand my appreciation of the remedy when I tell you that the attack has absolutely disappeared."

Kidney diseases cause more deaths than any other human affliction. This is because they come on so silently, and are, therefore, neglected.

When the kidneys are well, they remove from the body every day nearly one ounce of uric acid and other poisons, whose waste.

When the kidneys are sick, this poison is carried by the blood to every part of the body. It causes rheumatism, gout, neuralgia, sciatica, gravel, stones in the kidneys, heart disease, indigestion, diabetes and Bright's disease.

Doan's Kidney Pills act promptly and give complete relief, because their influence is exerted directly upon the diseased tissues. This medicine has been curing sick kidneys for 12 years.

MAJOR DELMAR'S VICTORY EASY

Lon Dillon, Suffering from "Thumps," Offers Little Contention for Memphis Gold Cup.

E. E. Smathers' Major Delmar had a practical walkover in the Memphis Gold Cup, as told in the late editions of Tuesday's Post-Dispatch. Lon Dillon, the only other starter in the race, was taken sick after the first heat and started in the second merely as a matter of form. The race was a free-for-all, amateurs to drive. Mr. Smathers drove Major Delmar, while C. K. Billings, a Chicago gas and traction magnate, handled the reins behind Lou Dillon.

The mare gave Major Delmar a vigorous argument in the first three-quarters of the first heat. Then she collapsed and was pulled up. A veterinarian said that she was suffering from the "thumps" and advised Mr. Billings to withdraw her from the race. Lou Dillon's owner is a thorough sportsman, however, and he did not care to rob Mr. Smathers of any glory. As long as Lou Dillon seemed able to jog around he decided to send her over the course. Major Delmar won the first heat in 2:06 and the second in 2:08.

The Gold Cup now becomes the permanent property of Mr. Smathers, who has decided to present the trophy to the New York Driving Club. Sweet Marie won the 2:01 Diamond handicap in straight heats trotting the first heat in 2:04 and the second in 2:06 flat. John M. by Paris beat Denit and Gallagher in the 2:01 pace, winning the deciding heats in 2:02 and 2:03.

ALL GOSSIP OF THE PRIZE-RING

$80,000 Side Bet the Record.
Old man Fitzsimmons added another chapter to his "Recollections of the Ring" the other day when he answered Jack O'Brien's general deft to the middleweights of the world.

On this occasion Fitz had an unusually hard dream. He said that he was tired of the plays that these youngsters were making these days and he had decided to call O'Brien's bluff. He said that he would fight O'Brien a 20-round battle for the biggest purse in sight and make a little side bet to focalize the interest. He suggested a matter of $80,000 or some such little wagger as that for the stake.

As nearly as the writer can remember Fitz was a popular fighter when he was in the ring. And those old fellows who can clearly recall those days will be glad to know that their idol is no "piker." An $80,000 side-bet is certainly the record.

Johnson vs. Jeffries.
Jack Johnson, the colored heavyweight, is still knocking out all comers with speed and regularity and the talk of matching him with Jeffries is becoming more insistent.

Jeffries has drawn the color-line. He says that under no conditions will he go into the ring to meet a colored fighter, and he has a perfect right to take this attitude if he so desires. Nobody believes that Jeffries is afraid of Johnson or any other living man, and he could refuse to fight "the black champion" all his life without anybody offering fear of defeat as the cause.

But just the same a large part of the fight world is anxious to have the two men matched. There is a growing impression that the Johnson type of fighter is the only one that has a chance with the great king and there is a general desire to have the theory tested.

Johnson is a big, strong man, with a quick knockout on either sleeve, and with it is a boxer of unusual merit. He would weigh from thirty to forty pounds at least less than Jeffries and should be correspondingly faster. Many experts believe that a courageous fighter of this type might wear the great Jeffries down and finish him. Tommy Ryan, who taught the champion, is one of those who believes that in this way he might be beaten.

POST-DISPATCH CARTOONIST HAS SOME VISIONS OF "DR. FITZ'S" HEALTH FARM

"FITZ" WILL FIGHT MANKIND'S ILLS

Famous Pugilist Announces Intention to Enter Ring Against Rheumatism and Other Diseases.

WILL START "HEALTH FARM"

Guests Will Be Allowed to Eat What They Want, but Very Little of It.

NEW YORK, Oct. 19.—"Robert Fitzsimmons, M. D."

"Yes, it's the same man. 'Old Fitz,' he of the freckles and the wallop, who has spent more than half of his life in inquiring the anatomy of a goodly percentage of his fellow men, will spend the rest of his years in repairing the constitutions of the others."

In a word, the dean of the prize ring is going to open the "Fitzsimmons Academy of Physical Culture and Health Farm," near Orange, N. J. He is going to build a 200-room hotel and have Mrs. Cunningham, the great Englishwoman athlete, to "train" the women patients.

He will build up weak constitutions with his own training methods, but his specialty will be curing rheumatism. He says that diet is half the battle and that his patients will be allowed to eat everything that they want, but very little of it. No "Dream-o" or "Cream of Soap-Suds" diet will be required in Mr. Fitzsimmons' sanatorium.

Fitz makes clear his own views of the health farm proposition in the following letter by his press agent.

A number of well-meaning friends have suggested to me the propriety and wisdom of organizing a stock company, with a view of purchasing a tract of land near New York City and erecting thereon commodious buildings, for the purpose of teaching physical culture and building up of feeble constitutions, etc.

The proposition has been presented to me in such a practical way that I can not help but believe that such an undertaking would have a great success. It would be something after the style of William Muldoon's institution, which I could improve upon Muldoon's methods and do infinitely a larger business. I want the affair to be organized and conducted that no one interested in it can lose anything or ever become dissatisfied with his investment. It must be chartered and organized in accordance with law and conducted in a businesslike way.

In a word, a very close friend of mine, a gentleman well qualified to look after all of the legal features of the undertaking, has kindly consented to take the matter in charge and give it his best efforts. I know him to be absolutely honest, and therefore I, with much confidence, approach you in the matter. He will arrange a prospectus at an early day.

I believe the proposed institution should be restricted at about $20,000. Several of my friends have agreed to take stock, ranging from $200 to $2,000.

There is no doubt but what I can make the stock pay not only a legal interest and leave a very nice surplus each year.

I know the Muldoon venture is a great success, and I am satisfied that I could make a similar investment twice as profitable.

Before going into the matter fully I concluded to get your judgment about it, and, if favorable, I want you to take a good-sized block of stock. Your well-remembered and appreciated favors of the past are not forgotten, and I trust that I shall never be unwelcome to you in remembering their kindness, or be the means of getting them into an undertaking that will be unprofitable to them.

No ring, I believe, is rapidly losing its popularity, and, even though it were not, I am sure it is no longer the thing of the future.

"SILK" TO BREAK INTO POLITICS

Umpire O'Laughlin Will Score Sentimental Political Umpire's Rulings Favor Him.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Oct. 19.—Francis J. O'Laughlin, the American league umpire better known the country over as "SILK," is out of the baseball game for the season. He has entered the political game as candidate for Senator in the Forty-third senatorial district.

"Good Roads" Armstrong now holds the senatorial post from that Republican stronghold, "Silk" is counted for "Silk," who hopes to make a home run to the capitol at Albany. "SILK" O'Laughlin is a young man with an immense grand stand of friends in Rochester. So confident are they that he will win that they even now address him as Senator.

While his nomination was considered in a humorous light at first, "SILK" doesn't think it so. "The Democrats have nominated me," he said today, "and I'm going to win. I think I have an excellent chance, and, even if the prospects were not nearly so bright as they are, I would stay in to the finish. Baseball is all right on the field, but I don't carry it into the campaign. I would never drop baseball into my talk off the diamond."

CORBETT AND WHITE READY

NEW YORK, Oct. 19.—"Young Corbett" (William Rothwell) and Jabes White, the English lightweight champion, were matched last night to meet the first week in January for $500 a side.

George Considine, in behalf of Rothwell, and Charley Mitchell, for White, arranged the fight at a meeting in this city last night. The men will weigh in at 135 pounds at the ringside.

The exact date and place of the fight will be decided later, but the club offering the best inducement will secure the match. It is announced.

NEWS OF THE SPORTING WORLD

KEMPER'S SHOWING SURPRISES VARSITY

Academy Eleven Puts Up Faster Game Than Delaney's Men, Though Beaten 12 to 0.

Score: St. Louis 12, Kemper 0. Kemper Military College surprised the football experts Tuesday afternoon by holding the St. Louis University team to a 12-0 score in 20-minute halves.

The local team, composed mostly of scrubs, but strengthened by several regulars, outwitted the academy boys about eight or ten pounds on the average, and that they twice crossed the visitors' line was due almost entirely to superior weight. The team played slowly and loosely, as was to be expected, considering the line-up. There was not enough speed or unity in the work and the gains were generally the result of individual playing.

The Kemper squad played fast and with good formations and several times flashed out brilliantly, getting the jump on the varsity and rushing down the field for long gains. The team did not seem to be in too good condition, however, for time was taken out frequently.

Fumbles were frequently made by both sides and this, together with a tendency to run back with the ball, proved costly to St. Louis on several occasions. Punting was resorted to in the second half and the advantage on the exchanges was always with the varsity.

In the second half when the military boys showed great improvement on the defense, Delaney's men made two tries for field goals but both were failures. A third attempt was made, this time by Howe, who had replaced Drury in the line, and was taken out of the game, the score not counting. Howe was substituted by Peckmann, captain of last year's varsity.

In the latter part of the opening period, and at the end of the second half, the Kemper team made its best showing. By good end runs and tackle bucks, the ball was one time carried to the ten-yard line, only to be lost on downs. The close of the game, when St. Louis had the oval within Kemper's five-yard line, the academy boys threw off the heavy runners twice and finally got the ball on downs. It was kicked to midfield, but the varsity soon brought it back and Kinney was then pushed over for the second touchdown.

The first score was made after about five minutes' play, Robinson finding an opening and getting through for a 20-yard run to a touchdown. The score was made after St. Louis had kicked off to Kemper and then taken the ball on downs. Straight plunges through the line did the work up to the time of Robinson's run.

In the second half Robinson, who recently joined the squad from Marquette, was forced to retire on account of an injured shoulder.

FEARS SHORTAGE OF INFELDERS

Manager Kelly Says There Is an Alarming Scarcity of Good Material in the Minors.

NEW YORK, Oct. 19.—Only one infielder in the eastern league who shows skill enough to warrant his promotion to the National and American leagues, says Hugh Jennings of the Baltimore team is quoted as advancing that opinion.

Manager Kelly of the Reds is reported to have said:

"Conditions regarding infielders in the big leagues are getting an alarming stage. Take our own team, for instance. We have need of one, and perhaps two, good infielders, yet we are able to get only two promising infielders from the minor leagues and if both of these should fail in the spring we would be in a sad plight. Indeed, the scarcity of infielders who are ready for fast company is best shown by a talk had with Hugh Jennings the other day. Jennings has been playing in the Eastern league all season, and asked Jennings if there were any good infielders in the Eastern, and he replied:

"There is just one man in the Eastern who looks to me as though he might do in fast company, and that is Lewis, the shortstop of the Baltimore team, over whom the Brooklyn and the New York Americans had a squabble. Lewis has all the earmarks of being a big league caliber, and he is the only one, too, of whom I can say that."

Arrest of Wyoming Man on Polygamy Charge Believed to Be First Before Election.

EVANSTON, Wyo., Oct. 19.—William H. Kensington, a leading Mormon and United States commissioner at Afton, a Mormon settlement in Uinta County, has been arrested, charges of polygamy being preferred against him.

Residents of Afton are greatly excited as the result of the visit of secret service men of the government who are said to be gathering evidence against the Mormons. It is also said that the Mormons are practicing polygamy.

Others point out that the Mormon question is a prominent issue in the present campaign.

Here Are the Three Drury College Backs Who Will Lead the Attack on Washington's Line in Today's Game

Full BackKNIGHT
Capt. and QuarterbackLOWE
TEAM IMPROVED

Victory Over Drury's Squad Today Expected, But Hard Battle Is in Sight.

Football at the Stadium will be continued this afternoon when Washington University will meet Drury College. A great improvement on their recent showing is expected by Coach Boynton of his charges, and, judging from Tuesday's practice, he will not be disappointed.

Although the Myrtle and Maroon squad is confident of winning today's game, the result is by no means certain, as Drury is known to have a heavy team this year. The Springfield squad was much lighter last year when it gave St. Louis University a hard battle, and may surprise Washington today.

Washington will present a greatly strengthened line today and if the backs are as fast as usual, the local team should win the game. Hudson and Weber, who played the guard positions for a time last Saturday, will be valuable additions to the line after they develop more speed and get into better condition. Baker at left-half, who played so well last week, is sure to make a good running-mate for Smith, and if the new man Hays develops enough to substitute at fullback until Krause recovers from his injury, Washington's backfield will be well taken care of.

Weiss and Munroe will again play the end positions. Capt. Cassell, who started out poorly, but who has been improved by practice, will occupy his old position at center.

CLYDE'S OWN WOODLAWN VASE

Shorthose Captures Trophy at Morris Park for Second Time.

The celebrated Woodlawn Vase, one of the most highly-prized trophies ever offered for competition on the American turf, became the absolute property of the Messrs. Clyde of shipbuilding fame when their horse Shorthose won the cup over the Morris Park course the other day. The same horse won the cup last year as a 3-year-old and his second win gave the Messrs. Clyde permanent possession of the Woodlawn Vase.

The famous vase, made in 1890 by Tiffany & Co. for R. A. Alexander of Woodburn, Ky., was originally run for at four miles. It was first won by Capt. "Tom" Moore's Mollie Jackson, one of the most famous mares of her time.

Oddly enough Gold Heels when he won this event in 1901, and the same jockey had the mount on Advance Guard, who won in 1902. Odom also rode Shorthose to victory. Thus in three out of the last four years for the Woodlawn Vase Odom has ridden the winner.

HUSTON BEAT CLEARWATER

IN BROADWAY TOURNEY.

The race for the world's championship pool title is well advanced and the "rail birds" are beginning to figure on the chances of the different entries. In this afternoon's match, Wm. Clearwater will meet B. H. Brumby and tonight Grant Ely and Jerome are due to fight it out.

A last night Alfred de Oro took another step towards the final by defeating Frank Sherman, 125 to 7. The champion seems to have regained his old-time form, and if the luck breaks even with him he will have to be considered when the prizes are given out.

"Kid" Huston, the erratic local player, surprised everybody Tuesday afternoon by winning from Clearwater, one of the best players now in the tournament, by 125 to 7. Both players were in splendid form.

CENTRAL PLAYS
WELL FOR WEIGHT

Beaten by C. B. C. Eleven With Score of 16 to 0, Showing Is Nevertheless Creditable.

C. B. C. 11; Central High 0. In sublimely fought halves of 15 and 10 minutes, Central High was beaten 16 to 0 by the C. B. C. team Tuesday afternoon on the college campus.

Central played gritty and intelligent football and its showing against Wilbur's heavier and well-trained machine may be considered in the light of a victory. Its work speaks well for the team's prospects in the intercollegiate league race.

The C. B. C. team which has played two good games this year with the weight against it, was forced to play harder Tuesday than at any time this year, though if regulation halves had been played the score would doubtless have been larger.

Central showed up with a strong line and fast backs. The punting of Capt. Weber was equal to that of Brockmeyer, the C. B. C. captain. The most apparent weakness shown by High was at the ends, where several long gains were made.

Fumbles and mistaken signals held the C. B. C. back at several times, but on the whole the team showed its usual good form.

The intermission of the game was a rush, carrying the ball to midfield and then punting to High's 15-yard line. The ball was fumbled and it was then no trouble for Schultz to cross the goal line on two tries, the first around the end and the final play through tackle. Brockmeyer missed an easy goal.

In the second half the game was harder fought, but near the close Schultz kicked the end for a 20-yard run, bringing the ball to the Centine line. Ely bucked it over and Brockmeyer added the extra point, bringing the final score to 11.

High played well during the remainder of the game, but could not reach the college goal. The game ended with the ball in the possession of C. B. C. in the center of the field.

SOUTHERN ENGINEER KILLED.

PRINCETON, Ind., Oct. 19.—In a head end collision between two freight trains on the Southern railroad directly in front of the depot at Birdseye last night Engineer Ed Wilson was killed, the station was demolished and the track was blocked for several hours.

Both engines and several cars were demolished. The wreck resulted from a misinterpretation of orders.

INHERITED SCROFULA

When a child I had a very severe attack of Diphtheria, which came near proving fatal. Upon recovery, the glands of the neck were very much enlarged, and the free use of iodine, the right one was reduced to its normal size, but the left one continued to grow—very slowly at first—until it was about the size of a goose egg, which began to press on the windpipe, causing difficult breathing, and became very painful. An incision was made and a large quantity of pus discharged. The gland was removed, or as much as could with safety be taken out. For ten years I wore a little piece of cloth about an inch long in my neck to keep the place open. During this time I had to have it cut open by the doctor every time it took cold or the opening clogged. In the Spring of early Summer of 1881 I was persuaded by my wife to use S. S. S., which I did, strictly in accordance with directions. I took twenty-six large bottles, and was entirely cured, for I have not suffered with the trouble since that time. B. S. ## FIRST AUTO RIDE ENDS IN ACCIDENT

Five Persons Injured in Collision With Street Car at Hamilton and Von Versen Avenues.

WOMAN'S CONDITION SERIOUS

New Machine Was Being Given Trial Trip When Accident Occurred—Child Escapes With Bruises.

Mrs. Wallace Woods of New Orleans is at the Missouri Baptist Sanitarium in a serious condition, suffering from internal injuries, a fractured left leg and many bruises which she received when a south-bound Easton avenue car collided with the automobile in which she, with her 3-year-old son, her husband, Dr. Woods, and Mrs. C. S. Jones of 3420 Bell avenue, were riding. The accident occurred at Hamilton and Von Versen avenues Tuesday afternoon.

By Mrs. Woods' side at the hospital is her 3-year-old son, who suffered several bruises in the accident, but escaped serious injury.

The other occupants of the automobile, Dr. Woods, Mrs. Jones and the chauffeur, William McClellan, received slight injuries. Dr. Woods purchased the automobile two days ago and was giving it a trial trip before shipping it to his home in New Orleans. The machine worked well and after a ride through the West End the party decided to go to the World's Fair.

They approached Hamilton avenue from Von Versen avenue and attempted to cross the tracks, the chauffeur not observing the approach of the southbound car. When they were on the track the car struck the machine, wrecking it and throwing the occupants out.

Mrs. Woods was caught by a heavy piece of the machinery and pinned to the ground. The car dragged her for 20 feet before stopping.

Dr. Woods, Mrs. Jones, the chauffeur and the boy were thrown to either side of the car and escaped serious injury.

CONSTITUTION IS GUARD TO SAFETY

—Alton B. Parker

Democratic Candidate Says Rights of People Are Endangered by Usurpation of Republicans

LETTER TO OLD NEIGHBORS

Issue Is "Shall Ship of State Sail by People's Chart or at Random?"

NEW YORK, Oct. 19.—Judge Parker discussed the question of constitutional government in a letter read at a meeting of citizens of Ulster County, New York, held at the headquarters of the Commercial Travelers' League. The meeting was arranged by William S. Rodie, Charles M. Preston and Lawrence Van Etten, all prominent in New York state Democratic politics.

There are more than 600 Ulster County citizens now living in this city and the attendance was large. Speeches were made by former State Senator J. J. Linson and Edward Chipp, both of Kingston, N. Y. Judge Parker's letter, which is addressed to the committee on arrangements, was as follows:

Gentlemen—Ulster County cannot be saved anywhere. Neighbors once, they are neighbors always. Years ago, a son of Ulster may settle far from home. He may seldom see a proper neighbor in the old days. But Ulster County is always home to him and no new friends can take the place of the old neighbors. I wish I might shake the hand of each of old friends tonight.

I want to say just a word about the significance of your meeting. It is the sons of old Ulster should bear a part in the great struggle for government by the people.

There is the high place of the first constitution of the Empire State. Twelve years before our national constitution was in operation that of New York was formulated and adopted at Kingston. And the state government was established there in conformity with that constitution.

The federal constitution is a chart that sets forth the course the ship of state should sail. It is the rule by which the government is divided into three departments. Each department is to perform a proper and specified function.

This is popular government in its most perfect form. So long as each department performs its function, and no one usurps the functions of another, the government is safe.

Under the federal constitution, no one rule is to be disregarded. One of the branches of government has no authority to usurp the functions of another.

Therefore, shall the ship of state sail by the people's chart or at random? I repeat, this is the issue of the people of Ulster County to be heard on the side of constitutional government.

With warm greetings and best wishes for each of you, I am, very faithfully yours,

ALTON B. PARKER.

RARE ART WARE SHOWN.

Wedding Breakfast Table and Bridal Present Room Features of Simmons' Display.

The opening days at the Simmons Hardware Co. retail store on Broadway have been an education and a feast for all eyes. The display is on the third floor in the china and art rooms. The wares have been most attractively arranged to advantage on tables decorated by several leading florists. Table No. 2, by Miss Newman, is a wedding breakfast table, set in white and green and set with the daintiest of flowers. The other three tables are dinner tables, set with silver and glass. The display is a most fortunate one.

E. D. Bartholomew has artistically arranged the beautiful works he has gathered from the various art centers of Europe. One especially rare Dolton vase is a reproduction of the old Chinese ox-bow, a color recently revived at the Dolton factories. The electroliers are unusually handsome and are in metal and lacquer, and cut glass nouveau art and Colonial designs. Rich cut glass in all the ornamental and useful forms are on exhibition. A cut glass punch bowl of great beauty of design and cut is in the center of the room with the accompanying punch cups, and was the source of much admiration.

A chest of five drawers of silver, fit for a royal gift, is on one side of the room with an equally royal set of Vienna sherry glasses. On the other side of the room are Italian marbles, Austrian glass with gold and fruit and flower designs, rock crystal vases, Royal Worcester, silver, silver cloisonne, Munich steins and handsome leather goods. The reception days will continue Thursday and Friday.

Ticket Brokers Granted Appeal.

The habeas corpus proceedings in the Missouri Supreme Court instituted by Thomas J. Gildersleeve and Max Schubach, St. Louis ticket brokers, who were sentenced to jail for failure to comply with an injunction of the St. Louis Circuit Court, have been dismissed. The men have been granted an appeal from the sentence of the St. Louis court, which was at first refused them. The judgment on appeal will have the same effect as would a decision in a habeas corpus case.

MADE AND LOST TWO FORTUNES

Dr. J. L. Cabanne, 71 years old, a physician who made two fortunes and lost them both, died of paralysis in the City Hospital Wednesday morning, after an illness of four days. Arrangements for his funeral have not been made.

Dr. Cabanne was 71 years old. Until 20 years ago he was a prosperous physician and owned a handsome home on Maryland avenue. Twelve years ago he made $50,000 on grand old paving contracts, but lost it a few years later in a Colorado mining venture.

After this loss he sold his Maryland avenue home and went to Hot Springs, Ark. A few years ago he returned and resumed the practice of medicine with Dr. J. K. Hicks at 1231 Market street.

A year ago Dr. Cabanne suffered from an attack of paralysis, which was diagnosed Saturday he applied for admission to the City Hospital, saying he anticipated a recovery. He was taken to the hospital, but his own case was correct, and within a few hours he was helpless. He soon sank into a comatose condition, from which he did not recover. He died at 4 o'clock Wednesday morning.

Dr. Cabanne told the hospital authorities his only living relatives were the family of a sister, Mrs. Elizabeth Cabanne.

The men entered the fruit stand a few minutes before the fight and priced pears and apples. A quarrel ensued between the leader of the negroes and Contention, and when violence came to the rescue of his companion the negroes drew their knives and began the attack.

The only description given of the men was that they had dark skins and wore railroad buttons.

At the City Hospital it was found that the negroes had $35 in bills and silver. Contention had only $4, but made a vigorous claim to a half interest in the money found in the possession of the other man.

COLORED WOMAN'S DEBT

Mrs. Booker T. Washington Expresses Gratitude for Missionary Society Work.

DES MOINES, Ia., Oct. 19.—At today's meeting of the National Congregational Council, Mrs. Booker T. Washington of Tuskegee, Ala., spoke on "The Advancement of Colored Women." She spoke of educational work among colored women and said they owed a debt of gratitude to the American Missionary Association and its numerous auxiliaries and that the advancement of the women of the black race of America is assured.

Wm. F. Slocum, D. D., of Colorado Springs spoke of the work being done by the colleges of the West and said if their history was taken out of the life of the middle West the history of the country would be vastly changed for the worse. "The reaction today," he said, "is toward the local college, however large the number that gather at the university and however important its work in research and specialization."

The report of Treasurer Hubbard of the missionary association, showed receipts of $25,781, of which $10,254 came from donations from churches, etc., and $15,527 from legacies, and $56,000 from tuition. The expenditures were $314,024, of which $281,023 was spent in the South. The debt Sept. 30, 1904, was $67,337.

SAM B. COOK,
Democratic Candidate for Secretary of State.

Are the lambs again in Wall street?
High tariffs are a combination of graft and gift.
Four years more of imperialism may make a great change in Republican institutions.
Is not Helen Keller the greatest achievement of human genius among all the wonders of the World's Fair?
The false registration in St. Louis cannot be charged to one party alone. Both party machines worked the ballot box.

DANGEROUS TO THE COMMUNITY.

Before Judge Zachritz was elected to the bench and delivered his extraordinary instructions to the grand jury investigating the Central Traction boodle deal—instructions composed mainly of denunciations of the Post-Dispatch for exposing the deal and charging notorious boddlers with their crimes—he had made a record which should forever debar him from public office.
As circuit attorney he gained the sobriquet of "nolle pros" Zachritz, from the frequency with which he entered nolle prosequis in the cases of political friends accused of crime.
Two grandjuries in public reports severely reflected upon his work in shielding men from punishment by the use of his official power. One case was that of former City Treasurer For-estel, whose indictments for embezzlement, after dragging along for three years, were "nolle prossed," against the indignant protest of a grand jury. Subsequently he persisted in freeing three men accused of crimes, against whom the grand-jury declared there was abundant evidence for conviction. In the cases against Collector Ziegenheim and his assistant Ungar, charged with misappropriating $4102, Judge Zachritz proved the value of his friendship to political bosses in trouble.

The purpose for which Judge Zachritz, after having been driven from office by indignant citizens, is placed upon the Republican ticket by a combination of Ziegenheim and Butler forces cannot be mistaken by intelligent voters. His defeat is imperative, if corrupt office holders and politicians are to be punished and the work of reform in this city is to continue.
But the Zachritz nomination is not the only danger spot on the Republican local ticket. With the exception of Judge Fisher, whose record on the bench is good, the judicial nominations are weak. With the influence back of the ticket which controlled the convention there is danger in its election. It is particularly dangerous to the better elements of the Republicans, whose party organization will be controlled by the worst elements.

The places to be especially guarded by the general voters, however, are the bench, the circuit and assistant circuit attorneys and the sheriff's office. That there will be a concentration of the Ziegenheim-Butler combine marshaling all the corrupt forces in the city in support of the Republican ticket there can be no doubt. There should be a counter concentration of good citizens in support of the Democratic candidates, whose nominations were accomplished in the teeth of the bitter opposition of the Butler forces.

No ticket tainted with Butlerism and Ziegenheimism is safe.
No candidate who receives the approval or support of the boodle bosses and their following can be trusted.

CENSORSHIP IN WAR.

Mr. Thomas F. Millard's article in the Sunday Post-Dispatch is a timely review of the military press censorship and the public functions of the war correspondent. His conclusions are derived from his experience in Manchuria, Cuba, the Philippines and South Africa.

"Governments cling to censorship," says Mr. Millard, "not to prevent information from reaching an enemy, but because they afford an opportunity to conceal things which civilization has a right to know and an interest in knowing, and because they may be used to cover up incompetence and the inhumanity which invariably attends even the most humane war."

In other words political considerations support the censorship. The military excuse is a mere pretense.

Mr. Millard shows how, in South Africa and the West Indies during our war with Spain, the censorship not only was unnecessary but often defeated its own ostensible purpose, and in the Philippines it was maintained for the sole purpose of "protecting the administration and army from popular criticism." Commenting upon a case of insanity in the Philippine army Mr.

Millard quotes an officer who forbade a report of it, that "it was calculated to alarm people at home, and deter men from enlisting."

No free people will ever permit secrecy in civil administration and the considerations of public safety and welfare which enforce publicity in peace are even more vital in war.

A censorship used as a political agent is a trick of militarism.
It is designed to keep the people in ignorance of the inhumanity of war and conceal the blunders of commanders. And it is only a step to the use of it as a cloak to hide the designs of ambitious men.

War is the public business. Therefore the public has a right to know every detail. Publicity is the only guarantee of the supremacy of a self-governing Democracy in peace and war.

The Democratic candidates for the bench in this city are to be commended for their resolution to refrain from speaking or taking an active part in the campaign. The ground of their resolution is that it does not comport with the proper dignity and non-partisan attitude of the judges on the bench or of candidates for the bench to canvass for votes or to engage in partisan campaigning. This is an eminently proper view and reflects credit upon the discretion and judgment of the Democratic candidates. It will be indorsed by the bar and citizens generally.

THE TRUST MENACE.

In the seventh count of the late Senator Hoar's indictment against the trusts they were charged with the power to corrupt elections.

If Senator Hoar were alive he could amend and enlarge this charge. He would find ground for the charge that with the money which they supply for corruption of elections they purchase the control of an administration. If this is not the meaning of the contributions squeezed out of the trusts by Mr. Cortelyou, who is armed with their business secrets, forced out of them under authority of the law when he was at the head of the department of commerce, there is no significance in any political action of a campaign manager.

The Cortelyou scandal is appalling; it is a warning of what must come out of the partnership of the government with powerful interests enjoying governmental privileges.

It is rather surprising to find a local Republican organ interrupting its Nesbit election law campaign long enough to refer to the clearing up of the registration lists under the "new state law." The Nesbit law is a thing of the past.

DRESS AND THE JOY OF LIFE.

Mrs. Safford Barstow, who makes a good living in New York by designing women's dresses, says the statement made in the dressmakers' convention that some women spend as much as $25,000 a year on their clothes was not an exaggeration.

"That is merely a fair average," says Mrs. Barstow. "The
the best dressed woman in New York. I am certain that she spends all of $50,000 a year on her dresses. Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt is a close second. Her dressmaking bill certainly runs over $40,000, while Mrs. Stuyvesant Fish and Mrs. Joseph Widener, for instance, are in a big class that easily parts their husbands from $35,000 each year for the benefit of the dressmakers, shoemakers, gloves, etc."

So Mrs. Astor spends on dress as much money as 50 mechanics spend on their 50 families.

But let that pass. The question is: how can a woman who dresses $50,000 worth in a year have any time to enjoy life?
True, her garments may all be designed by artists and the mechanics of bargaining be attended to by a private secretary or serving woman. But there must be a great quantity of trying on and fitting. And no woman of taste likes to leave it all to the designer.

If Mrs. Barstow's estimate is approximately correct, where do these ladies find time to enjoy life? Or do they enjoy it?

Private Smith of the United States army justifies his marriage with a negro by saying that "if the head of the army thought a negro good enough to eat with, a negro was good enough to become the wife of Private Smith." The noble warrior is too literal minded. There is no essential connection between dinners and weddings. Besides who knows that the Booker Washington luncheon was not purely Pickwickian and not be drawn into a precedent? If President Roosevelt as commander-in-chief is called upon to pass upon the case he will no doubt make this very clear to Private Smith.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

DANGER TO SCHOOL CHILDREN.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
You have been kind enough to publish complaints as to the way in which the Frisco Railway Co. endangers people's lives by leaving long strings of cars on its tracks between the suburbs of Lindenwood and Greenwood. Any morning, while waiting for the train at Lindenwood, you will see little children on their way to school from Greenwood compelled to crawl under the freight cars to reach the south side of the tracks. The strings of cars stretch so far that the children feel like taking a short cut by getting under them. In fact, men and women do so, at all hours of the day. The result is a horrible accident. A stationer, looking round which trains come at full speed. It is only a question of time till some of these children get killed. Why does not the railroad look into the matter of having a bridge built across the track at Fryer avenue?
That is the best way out of the trouble.

THE TARIFF AND TRUST ISSUE

Monopoly "Reformed by Its Friends."

The argument of the high tariff campaign which resulted in the passage of the McKinley bill was that the object of high taxes at the ports (really levied to prevent Americans from buying imported goods) is to give the poorest American family a "carpet on the floor and a piano in the parlor."

In Indiana, Mr. Harrison insisted, as he no doubt believed, that the poorest "average" American family already had the piano and the carpets of this millennium, brought about by laying a tax to be added to the prices of goods bought outside the "home markets" on the theory that higher prices paid at home "protect" us from importing poverty from abroad.

The tariff act then in force was the Republican tariff act of 1883. It was passed in response to the clamor against "war taxes in time of peace." Instead of lowering the war taxes, however, it made the average higher—though not nearly as high as those who have since organized the trusts then demanded and have since imposed.

These three tariff acts, all Republican, are landmarks in the progress of monopoly, in the matter of carpets the poorest "average" American is supposed to have on every floor to match the piano in the parlor, the progressive rate of taxation shows how taxing him into prosperity.

If the carpets on every floor in the house of the poorest average American are now two-ply ingrain he can observe the progress of taxation under three Republican tariffs, by noting the figures in this tariff table of rates of taxation on two-ply ingrain carpets.

Tariff of 1883 (Reform Republican) 8 cents a yard and 30 cents on the dollar.
Tariff of 1890 (McKinley bill) 14 cents a yard and 40 cents on the dollar.
Tariff of 1897-1904 (Dingley bill) 18 cents a yard and 40 cents on the dollar.

If the carpets on every floor of the poorest house happen to be three-ply ingrain, the advance in the tax on them is from 12 cents a yard and 30 per cent under the Republican tariff of 1883 to 22 cents a yard and 40 per cent under the existing tariff law.

On tapestry Brussels the advance is from 20 cents a yard and 30 cents on the dollar under the Republican tariff of 1883 to 25 cents a yard and 40 cents on the dollar under the present tariff.

If the carpet which goes with the piano in the parlor is Wilton, Axminster or velvet of other kinds, the advance in taxation is from 45 cents a yard and 20 cents on the dollar in 1883 to 60 cents a yard and 40 cents on the dollar now.

Under this progress toward monopoly, the tariff rate of 8 cents a yard on the cheapest carpet, levied by a Republican Congress in 1883, was advanced to 18 cents in 1897, so that on the cheapest carpets now to be had the Republican tax per yard of 1883 has been more than doubled. At the same time the tax of 30 cents on the dollar in value in 1883 has been advanced to 40 cents.

Under this arrangement, if a yard of ingrain carpet could be had outside the tariff line in New York harbor for 30 cents a yard, there would be added to it in crossing the tariff line 18 cents on the yard, bringing its price up to 48 cents, with the tax on its value also to bring the price up to 57 cents. Under this system, a carpet worth in open market 30 cents a yard can be sold under the tariff for 50 cents with a margin of 7 cents a yard still between it and the competition of other goods.

This suggests the general advance of the monopoly idea in the Republican tariff since the "war tariff" of 1861. Though the highest taxes were laid in that tariff ever laid up to the date of its passage, it was intended chiefly to bring revenue to the government rather than to create and support American monopolies.

The advance towards monopoly, illustrated in the cost of carpets, has been progressive all along the line. The general rate on wooleens under the war tariff was 25 cents on the dollar, certainly a high tax of its kind. In some cases it was 12 cents a pound by weight. On wooleens in the form of clothing it averaged 30 cents on the dollar of value.

Taking blankets as an illustration of "wooleens," this rate of war taxation was advanced in 1883 to 50 cents on the dollar of value with an additional tax of 30 cents on each pound of weight. This is on even the cheapest blankets. Under the present tariff, the further advance is to 60 cents on the dollar of value and 50 cents a pound weight.

On many of the most important articles in universal use the taxes are now double and more than double those of the "war tariff" of the same articles. The Roosevelt administration, to support monopoly against the demand for a greater plenty of the necessities of life in easier reach of the people, is "standing pat" on taxes which on scores of articles necessary for health and comfort, more than double a question not of protecting "trusts" but of protecting the government. The first "war tariff" adopted had increased rates, but it was followed by a second in the same year, passed only when it was evident that the war would be long and costly.

Even the second of these "war tariffs," if it were now offered bodily as a substitute for the trust tariff of the present, would be denounced by every trust in the country as the "rankest free trade."

The tariff trusts, most of which have been formed since the passage of the present law, now number 3288, with paper issued as a basis for fixing their own prices amounting to a gross sum of $7,250,000,000—between seven and eight thousand million dollars—on which the American public is expected to pay dividends annually under the "protective system."

This is a sample chapter from the history of how monopoly in the tariff has been "reformed by its friends."

NEW YORK WORLD EDITORIAL TODAY

THE PRESIDENT'S ORGANS CONTINUE TO EXCITE THEMSELVES OVER THE INFAMY OF DEMOCRATIC "CHARGES" AGAINST MR. CORTELYOU

At the risk of tiresome iteration we must repeat that nobody has made any charges. All that the critics have done has been to direct attention to the spectacle presented by Mr. Cortelyou and his chief. If that spectacle constitutes an accusation in itself, let those who are responsible for it bear the blame.

It seems almost hopeless to penetrate the moral density of the President's apologists in this matter, but let us see whether a very simple illustration can help their comprehension.

Suppose the Slocum disaster had occurred in time to enable Mr. Cortelyou to give a thorough investigation before he left office. Suppose he had conducted this investigation, not publicly as the federal commission did, but in secret. Suppose that by inquisitorial methods he had discovered all the facts brought out in the testimony before the commission—the crumbling life preservers, the rotten fire hose, the flimsy woodwork, the cheap, untrained, incompetent crews, the unlicensed mates, the reckless handling of combustibles.

Suppose that Mr. Cortelyou, armed with all these deadly secrets about all the extraneous boats in New York harbor, had gone to the owners of these boats and to the manufacturers that put iron in their cork and asked them for contributions to the Roosevelt campaign fund. Would it have been necessary to do more? Would there have been any occasion for formal bargains? Would not the mere request for contributions and the mere acceptance of them under such conditions have been assurance enough?

The Slocum commission took testimony in public. What public testimony did Mr. Cortelyou ever take in his 483 days of trust investigation? The Slocum commission published its findings. What findings about the trusts has Mr. Cortelyou ever published? The members of the company that weighted cork with iron have been indicted. What indictments have followed Mr. Cortelyou's study of the criminal methods of the trusts?

It is not denied that Mr. Cortelyou has been collecting money from these trusts.
All that is denied is that he has given them pledges of immunity. But why should he give such pledges? Suppose a policeman should find a burglar cracking a safe and without saying a word should hold out his hand for a share of the plunder; would the burglar ask for a written contract before dividing? And would the morality of the transaction be vindicated if it were proved that no pledges had been given?

It is Mr. Cortelyou's misfortune that his conduct speaks for itself. His apologists would have us believe that he is playing a gigantic confidence game on the unsuspecting trusts—that he is taking their money with no intention of returning the expected equivalent. The excuse does not greatly improve the moral quality of the transaction. And besides, shearers going for lamb's wool do not usually find it on the backs of the trusts.

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS FROM TODAY IN ST. LOUIS

BY O. B. JOYFUL.

(In the Post-Dispatch of Oct. 19, 1929.)

D. R. Francis announced that he would have no photographs made today, as he is celebrating the twenty-fifth anniversary of the occasion on which he was made an
LL. D. by St. Louis University. Dr. De Taylor, who is still quite hearty, and who was similarly honored at that date, called on D. R. Francis, and they talked over World's Fair times with great gusto. Dr. De Taylor does not think much of the World's Fair held in Kansas City in 1929, commemorative of the completion of the Union Station at that place. D. R. Francis declines to express an opinion on the K. C. fair, but from the way the old gentleman swells up when anybody calls him Dr. Francis, it is believed that he is content with his Louisiana Purchase record.

Mrs. Adeline Patti blew in this morning in her sky-wagon, "The Gold Certificate," and will make her farewell appearance this evening.

This estimable lady, who is well known in musical circles, announces that this will positively be her last appearance on any stage, but she reserves the right to change her mind.

Jerre Hunt made a flying trip to Chicago in his airship, "No Water." He says it is the only way.

A bulletin issued this morning by the mayor announced that the circus showing the Sunday Post-Dispatch had reached 6-000,001.

The bones found yesterday near the city hall are believed to be those of the Republican candidate for governor in 1891, who was buried under a landslide that year.

A suspicious looking character, name unknown, was thrown down an elevator shaft in a newspaper office this morning.
On his person was found a 40,000-word manuscript entitled, "What I Saw at the St. Louis World's Fair," which he had submitted to the editor after attempting to chloroform him.

The case of Ed Butler, charged with bribery, which has been hanging for two something over twenty years, will be called in Circuit Court No. 147 this morning. The old man is very much wrought up over the matter and threatens to take the law off and show up things politically if the case against him is pushed. There is likely to be a good deal of ducking and dodging before the affair is ended.

ST. LOUIS POST-DISPATCH RECORD OF FINANCIAL AND MARKETS

ST. LOUIS POST-DISPATCH RECORD OF FINANCIAL AND MARKETS

Rush of Realizing Sales Accompanied by Heavy Bear Selling Causes a Sharp Break Before the Close, but the Last Price Shows Only Little Change From Yesterday.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
NEW YORK, Oct. 19.—The opening on Wall street this morning found the bull element still in absolute control and gains of a sharp character were recorded. St. Paul was the strongest and most active feature and rose buoyantly a full point from the close of yesterday. No change in sentiment towards the stock market is apparent over night and the indications point strongly towards another day of active bull speculation. The market for American shares in London is strong and advancing and the general list at that center is steady. The money situation at that point shows signs of improvement and consols are sharply higher at 87½ and 87½.

The strength of the present market in the face of the large volume of sales recorded is remarkable when the advances in many of the leading stocks are taken into consideration. The sales yesterday reached the sum total of 1,515,500 shares, following a record-breaking day for the present movement of 1,538,900, or considerably over 3,000,000 shares for the two days of trading. Usually the volume of sales indicates the temporary culmination of the movement, but in the present case the heavy sales are counting for naught, and the long-expected and talked-of reaction fails to appear. To the contrary, the market must be of a highly favorable character. Money must remain easy and be in sufficient supply to satisfy both the legitimate demands of business and the speculative interests in the market. The assurance of bountiful harvests must be had. Railroad earnings the country over must be on the improving plane, and the steel trade, the barometer of the country's industry, must be prosperous or show distinct signs of returning prosperity. The state of the public mind must be such that a continued rise in the stock market will attract this element and convince them that the general conditions are, or will shortly be, of a highly prosperous character. That these many favorable conditions are prevalent at the present time there can be little question of doubt. For a general survey of the situation at the present time will convince the most skeptical that such is the case. A large and bountiful harvest is now assured. Railroad earnings continue to show most gratifying results compared to the figures for the same period in 1903. Money is in abundant supply and the extension of credit in the money market by the leading financial institutions at the present time is the best proof that little if any change in light money has taken place. The sales the last few days have been of sufficient volume to indicate that the public are awakening to the fact that the underlying conditions in the country are vastly improved and that the public mind takes a hold on the public mind at present speculation is profitable and profitable no longer. The state of the public mind at present is the strongest stock market in many months past was brought forward by Frank A. Vanderlip, vice-president of the National City Bank of New York, at St. Louis yesterday. In striking contrast to the famous address by this financier before the Chamber of Commerce of St. Louis two years ago, when the attention of the financiering and excessive speculation was going on, and the speculative depression under which the country was suffering in the past two years was accurately foretold, was the speech of yesterday, which was the face of the present market movement and the ammunition in the hands of the bull.

After a slight hesitation in the second hour of trading, the market again broke out and the market in general advanced. The trading centered largely in the coal issues, St. Paul and the leading ton carriers and transfers in the cotton market of enormous proportions and strong support was recorded. St. Paul reached 17½ shortly after 11 o'clock and the present upward swing. Many rumors are in circulation regarding this property and talk of $200 and $300 a share of stock of one of the bonds for one share of stock of the National City Bank of New York, which was the subject of the trading this morning and the indications are that the Gould interests, who have for some time been out of sympathy with the present rise, are at last swinging into line on the bull side of the market. Officials of the system report that the prospects for increased earnings in the coming year are exceedingly bright. The earnings for the second week in October increased $200,000 and large weekly gains are looked for from now on.

The United States Steel issues were the easy feature of the early trading, in spite of the continued favorable news reports and the announcement that the National Tube Co. had advanced the price of tubing and pipes $2 per ton.

The market at the noon hour showed the effects of heavy realizing sales, but the general list was still steady and the majority of cases at a sharp level. Sales to noon, 882,000 shares.

The market continued its upward flight until within an hour of the closing period and additional bids were received by St. Paul and many of the leading issues, when suddenly a terrific selling movement developed. For a short period the market was thrown over in enormous blocks, regardless of the price obtainable, and this was followed by a heavy bear selling, which was followed by a sharp decline in the market. The decline was checked by an active short covering. The market was apparently home-comb with strong news and the forced execution of these only added to the confusion on the floor.

Little if any news was forthcoming with a bearing on the general market, the street being busily absorbed with the movements on the floor.

On the rebound from the low point gained averaging about a point were established and the close came with the market unusually active and in the majority of cases slightly lower.

Opening prices and changes were as follows: Copper 66½, advance ½; Atchafalaya 15½, decrease ½; Erie 26½, advance ½; Baltimore & Ohio 36, advance ½; Erie 26½, advance ½; Missouri Pacific 16, advance ½; Reading 14, advance ½; Pennsylvania 13½, advance ½; St. Paul 17½, advance ½; Union Pacific 17½, advance ½; United States Steel common 28, unchanged; United States Steel preferred 32½, advance ½.

HE REASONED AGAINST BIBLE.

The Congress of Free Thinkers will meet this afternoon and evening in Frele Gielmeide hall, Twentieth and Dodder streets. A number of the speakers are scheduled for this afternoon, while the meeting will close this evening with a banquet. It is planned to launch an international organization.

The first session of the congress was held Tuesday evening, when 30 arguments were presented by J. E. Remsburg of Indianapolis, as recorded by the Bible should not be accepted as a divine message, John Maddox of Minneapolis criticized the Darwinian theory in an address.

LOCAL STOCKS SLOWLY IMPROVE

Activity Is Increasing and Some Indications of Outside Inquiry Are Apparent.

TRUSTS AND BANKS HIGHER

Nearly All of These Issues Score Advances and Bank of Commerce Gains Two Points.

Trading on the local stock exchange at the session today was of an active character and in nearly all cases prices were well maintained at a higher level. The manner in which some of the active issues were taken indicates that for the first time in many months past the outside interests are inclined to take a more than passing interest in the market.

The trading in the traction issues was only of slight volume and in Transit the price was lower, sales being made at $3.50 compared to yesterday at $3.50 and $3.50. The case in this issue is accounted for in the fact that yesterday was the last day in which Transit stock could be deposited and receive the benefits of participating in the new underwriting scheme. United Railways preferred was slightly higher in the early session on sales at the high point on the present movement at $28.75, but at the close the stock was unchanged on offerings at $28.75. The bonds of the company were steady on sales at $84.75.

Trading in the bank and trust issues found National Bank of Commerce and Missouri Trust the strongest features, and both stocks scored an advance. In Missouri the gain was confined to a small fraction, but Commerce was advanced to $32.50 bid, compared to sales yesterday at $30.00, without bringing out any stock. Third National Bank was also one point higher on bids at $28, while Mechanics' National Bank gained 1/2 at $28.

In the balance of the list the sales were scattered, but in the majority of cases the tendency was upward and small gains were the rule.

Light Facts THAT ARE WEIGHTY

You burn gas to get the best possible store light for your money. We raise the question, are you getting it?

Depends upon your lamp. Five feet of gas consumed through the ordinary flat-flame gas burner will produce under the most favorable conditions twenty candle power light.

Humphrey Gas Arc Lamp

In other words, the Humphrey Arc Light gives five times as much light with the same gas consumption!
